Mutual understanding

Felita stared at the half-finished tree and wished she had never heard the words winter play. She had volunteered to design and make the scenery for the class play as usual. But this play needed so much scenery! She was spending all her non-school time drawing and painting, and still she would not finish in time.

Just then, Mom called in her for dinner. Felita ate quickly. Mom and Dad looked worried, but they did not scold her. Felita never spent much time away from her paints anymore. She could not even take time to call her best friend Gigi on the phone. Gigi felt bad, but she didn't complain.

Gigi arrived at Felita's. Felita said she was too busy to chat, but Gigi spoke first. "I know you need help to finish the scenery on time. I am your friend. I came to help." Before Felita could answer, Gigi went on. "I am not as good an artist as you, but I could paint your drawings and save your time. I know you want the scenery to be all your own work, but it would still be yours. I would just be backing you up".

Felita stared at Gigi. She realized that sharing her work would not mean giving it away. "Yes, I could use some help", she said. Gigi followed Felita happily into her room. Suddenly, the work was looking like fun again. The girls laughed all evening as they finished the scenery.
