HE KNEW MILLIONS OF LINES OF THE "MANAS" TALE

For over 30 years Kyrgyz scientists are recording the ancient "Manas" epic.

The Kyrgyz people are among the most ancient in Central Asia. They developed over the centuries a wonderful epic culture. Our people lived with no written language and fine arts and constant struggle for their freedom and independence.

At present 10 Kyrgyz epics have been published. Each of them has thousands of lines of poetry. "Kodjodjash" is an ancient dramatic poem about a man hunter. "Oldjobai and Kishimdjan" is a lyrical fairytale. But of all the Kyrgyz epics the greatest one is, of course, "Manas".

“Manas” is like an ocean; it is longer than any other epos in the world. The epic is one of the most outstanding in the world. The main theme is the struggle of the Kyrgyz people against its enemies. The legendary hero Manas united all the Kyrgyz tribes. Here we can find out what ancient Kyrgyz people knew about geography, medicine, architecture, astronomy. “Manas” is the world of the past of the Kyrgyz people.

The epic “Manas” was passed on orally from generation to generation. It is hard to find a Kyrgyz who does not know the story of the hero Manas. We know the best “Manas” storytellers, Sayakbay Karalayev among them. This wise old man lived a fine life. During the Civil War he fought with the red partisans in Siberia against Kolchak’s white guard army. By the campfire Karalayev told stories about Manas. He recalled how people who did not know a word of Kyrgyz would listen to “Manas” for hours. This shows that Karalayev was a master of storytelling even when he returned to Kyrgyzstan. Karalayev became well known in the republic as a “Manas” storyteller.

The outstanding Kazakh writer Mukhtar Auezov called Karalayev “a legendary epic storyteller”, “a modern Homer.”

Sayakbay Karalayev knew millions of poetry lines by heart. Karalayev’s performance was full of thought, laughter and weeping.

When the great storyteller came to a collective farm, the news of his arrival spread through all the villages. People came to listen to him, leaving their fields. The Culture House couldn’t hold all the people who wanted to listen to Karalayev. So he performed outside. He sat on a chair and the people gathered around him, sitting on the ground, and on their horses. Even when it rained Karalayev did not stop and not a person left.

“Manas” is our national pride. Large passages are translated into Russian. The “Manas” opera is on at the stages of the Kyrgyz Ballet and Opera House.
